Dag Fails, Israel Is Claiming

Israeli Position To Defend Self Strengthened by Nasser's Attitude

By UNITED PRESS

Israeli officials said today UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold had failed in his mission to Cairo.

Official sources said in Jerusalem he had been unable to soften the attitude of Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser and that the West would have to adopt a tougher attitude toward Nasser.

Nasser's attitude has strengthened the Israeli positions, and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has agreed that Israel has the right to defend itself if attacked in the Gulf of Aqaba or from the Gaza Strip, the Israeli sources said.

Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru took note of the growing impasse today and called in New Delhi for direct talks between the United States and Russia to solve the Middle East and other international problems.

Three Point Plan

Nehru, in a foreign policy debate in parliament, outlined a three-point program he said would bring peace to the Middle East:

—The big powers would withdraw from the affected areas as they did in settling the Indochina war.

—The big powers would reach an understanding in direct negotiations and there would be fewer and fewer military pacts. In this connection Nehru particularly condemned the Baghdad Pact.

There was no official comment in Western capitals on the Israeli position that Hammarskjold had failed to resolve the differences between Israel and Egypt.

President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan merely agreed publicly at their Bermuda conference not to do or say anything that would imperil the Hammarskjold mission. They forged a joint Mideast policy, but it remained top secret.

No 'Test' Ship

Hammarskjold himself interrupted his talks with Nasser and Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi today and flew to the Suez Canal Zone to watch the UN salvage team begin raising the last obstacle in the main channel —the sunken freighter Edgar Bonnet near Ismailia, midway through the canal.

Only one major obstacle remains after that, the frigate Abukir near Suez, and ships of 10,000 tons are expected to begin transiting the canal as soon as Egypt gives permission.

The Egyptian Suez Canal Authority announced today the wa-

Policeman's Ball Set for May 8

The 12th annual Monessen Police Ball will be held Wednesday, May 8, at the New Italian Hall, Chief of Police Michael Kuvinka announced today.

The affair is for the benefit of the police pension fund.

Music will be by the Johnny Vass orchestra.

Kuvinka is chairman of the dance. Other committee members are Lieutenants Joseph Mischyshyn, Joseph Reday and James Horan and Patrolman Anthony Nicastro.

PICNIC CHAIRMAN — Fred C. Stockus, assistant manager of Mellon National Bank, has been named general chairman of the annual Monessen Community Picnic to be held Tuesday, July 30, at Kennywood Park.

TEAMSTERS PETITION SENATE COMMITTEE—Sen. John McClellan (D-Ark.) (seated), chairman of the Senate Select Committee which is investigating labor activities and committee counsel Robert Kennedy examine a telegram signed by 502 teamsters in Portland asking the removal from office of any teamster official found guilty of racketeering or misuse of union funds.

Dave Beck to Testify Tomorrow Morning

WASHINGTON (UP) — Dave Beck's lawyer said today that the chief of the powerful Teamsters Union "positively" will appear before the Senate Rackets Committee at 10 a. m. Tuesday.

But the lawyer—former Senator James H. Duff (R-Pa)—declined to say whether Beck will bring his personal financial records with him.

"As his lawyer, I am not going to discuss anything about his records," Duff told the United Press. "And I can't tell you anything about his present whereabouts. But I can tell you that he positively will be there at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. There is no doubt about it. Any reports to the contrary are complete bunk.

"I don't say I imagine he will be there," Duff added vigorously. "I know he will be there. You can take my positive assurance that he will be there. I can't make any other statement."

Plays Hide and Seek

Beck, who had played hard to get with the Senate investigators for weeks, played hide and seek with newsmen over the week end.

He originally was scheduled to arrive here from Seattle at 11:08 a.m., EST, today aboard a United Airlines plane. But late Sunday night, Beck's secretary in Seattle cancelled his reservation. There were rumors that he might have slipped into some other city, possibly even have gone to Canada, to catch a plane for Washington.

Duff's assurance that Beck will appear before the committee came amid these other developments:

—Senate investigators said they already can prove that Beck misused union funds.

—There were mounting demands for legislation to curb abuses of union funds.

—High AFL-CIO officials stepped up their attack on Beck's union stewardship.

To Bring Records

Beck is slated to appear before the Senate Rackets Committee in open session Tuesday to reveal whether he will turn over his personal financial records, and face questioning on his "loans" from his union.

Beck promised to bring his records with him, but hinted he may refuse on Fifth Amendment grounds to turn them over to the senators. A subpena probably would have no effect against such a plea.

But Robert F. Kennedy, chief committee counsel, told newsmen

Rash of Field Fires In Monessen, Area

Monessen firemen were called to fight three field fires yesterday afternoon.

Two were in the Park Plan area and the other on Monessen Highway. Webster firemen assisted in the latter call.

Belle Vernon and North Belle Vernon firemen answered a call to a brush blaze in Rostraver Township late Saturday afternoon.

Two Fayette City Persons Hurt in Route 51 Crash

Nine persons, including two from Fayette City and one from Smock, were injured Sunday in a chain-reaction collision of four automobiles on Route 51 near Uniontown.

State Police said all but one of the persons were treated at Uniontown Hospital. An eight-year old girl was transferred to Children's Hospital, Pittsburgh.

Police said the accident occurred when a car operated by Nancy L. Roy, 31, of 136 California avenue, Fayette City, stopped on the highway to allow another car to make a turn. A vehicle driven by Frank Svec, 42, of McKeesport, slammed into the Roy machine, which in turn rammed into two other cars.

Louis Roy, 68, and his wife, Nellie Roy, 67 parents of Nancy, both suffered head and chest injuries. A passenger in the Roy car, Charles Shelkey, 71, of Smock, suffered body injuries.

Svec suffered head and chest injuries. His two daughters, Alice, 8, and Sandra, 13, sustained head and face bruises.

Two passengers in the Svec car, Kathleen, 13, and her sister, Colleen, 8, both of Liberty, near Uniontown, suffered head and face injuries.

Stephen M. Speers, 54, of Belle Vernon, and Arthur Rossi, of Coraopolis, escaped injury.

Narrow Escape For Teenagers At Drive-in

A Saturday night date almost cost the lives of two teenagers who were overcome by carbon monoxide fumes at the Route 71 Drive-in theatre in Rostraver Township early yesterday morning.

Reported in good condition today in Charleroi-Monessen Hospital were Richard W. Arnold, 19, of Monongahela, and Juanita Barbour, 17, of Bentleyville.

They were found in an unconscious state by attendants at the theatre after all other patrons had driven from the parking area at the close of the late show.

Belle Vernon and North Belle Vernon firemen rushed to the scene and administered emergency treatment.

Arnold suffered an extreme dose of the poison, it was reported.

Firemen said the couple apparently had been sitting in the car with the engine running to keep the heater in operation.

26 Arrested in Two Charleroi Poolrooms

Twenty-six persons were arrested in simultaneous raids on two Charleroi poolrooms shortly before midnight Saturday.

Three of the men are charged with operating a gambling house and face hearings on Wednesday.

Charles W. Garbutt, 35, of 500 McKean avenue, Charleroi, and James Troiano, 49, of 221 Crest avenue, Charleroi, were arrested by State Police in a raid at the Central Billiards Parlor at 517 McKean avenue.

Charged with operating a gambling establishment, Garbutt and Troiano each posted $1,000 bonds before Justice of the Peace William McCollum, of Carroll Township.

Police said 19 others arrested in the raid paid forfeits of $12 each on gaming charges. Police confiscated money, dice and cards.

While that raid was taking place, another State Police detail entered the Nucci Poolroom at 705 Fallowfield avenue and arrested five persons.

Louis Nucci, 42, of 218 Crest avenue, posted $500 bond before Squire McCollum on charges of establishing a gaming place, police stated. Four others in the Nucci establishment were arrested for gaming and posted $12 forfeits each.

Money and cards were confiscated, police stated.

Britain To Get Missiles

Ike, Macmillan Advisors Work Out Results of Bermuda Parley

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower, tanned and rid of his cold but not his cough, put his advisers to work today to back up new agreements reached with America's old ally, Britain.

Military sources indicated one of the first results of the Bermuda conference with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan will be stepped-up planning for turning over U.S. missiles to the British.

These sources said preliminary discussions already have been held and "something tangible" is expectable within the next few months—certainly by the end of the year—within the framework of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

No Atomic Warheads

The sources indicated the most likely missiles to be given the British, for the present at least, will be shorter-range "battlefield" types like the "Honest John" 20-mile rocket, the "Corporal" missile with a 75-mile range and possible anti-aircraft missiles like the Navy's Talos.

They said any move to give the British so-called intermediate ballistic missiles—such as the proposed Thor or Jupiter with an estimated 1,500-mile range—are "a little ways off." They pointed out this country itself has no such missile ready for use yet.

The sources emphasized that any missiles handed the British would be without atomic warheads, since the President is forbidden by law to part with these save in time of war.

Agreement on Mideast?

Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said Sunday night he also favors turning over the atomic warheads for the missiles to the British, French, West Germans and all of this country's "true allies."

Bridges said "some restrictions" on use of the weapons should be imposed. But he said if friendly nations do not have atomic weapons, a war might end before they could get them.

This appeared to be the first such proposal from such an influential Republican. There was no indication that Bridges' proposal constituted an administration "feeler" on the issue.

Another subject that will occupy the newly-returned President will be efforts to expand the apparent new Bermuda-born understanding on the Mideast into a united British - American front for dealing with the still - troublesome area.

Meanwhile, the Eisenhower-Macmillan offer to exchange nuclear test observers with Russia had little apparent prospect of realization. Diplomatic sources in Moscow said Russia probably will turn it down.

State Labor Federation in Parley Tomorrow

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Pennsylvania Federation of Labor will open its last convention Tuesday as an AFL organization.

The PFL and the CIO Pennsylvania Industrial Union Council are under orders of the national AFL-CIO to merge voluntarily this year or be forced to consolidate.

The three day convention attended by 1,500 delegates from 1,400 locals undoubtedly will discuss the aspects of the merger with particular emphasis on control of the new house of labor.

The AFL-CIO merged 16 months ago to end an opposition which lasted 20 years. Since the consolidation of the parent organizations, neither state organization has been in any hurry to draw up a unity agreement because leaders are jockeying for position for domination.

The AFL faction supports either Joseph A. McDonough, PFL president, or one of its own to head the new state group. The state CIO officials favor their president, Harry Boyer.

Plan Post-prom Party Tomorrow

A meeting to formulate plans for the annual post-prom party for Monessen High School students will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the superintendent's office at the high school.

Rudy Beneditti has been appointed to serve as chairman of the event. He will be assisted by Leonard Falbo.

Police Look for 'Bomb' In the State Capitol

STUDENTS GIVEN THE NEEDLE — Some 1,700 Monessen public school children received free anti-polio vaccine shots in a mass inoculation program this morning in the high school gymnasium. Dr. Joseph Pallone, superintendent, said a second shot will be administered a month from today. The third and final shot will be given sometime in October. The State provided the free vaccine. Dr. Max Heatter, school physician, injected the vaccine with assistance from Mrs. Margaret Brown, school nurse. Nurse Mrs. Ruth Conrad, of the Monessen branch of the State Health Department, seated, also aided.

Telephone Threat Is Received

HARRISBURG (UP)—State and capitol police today imposed security measures at the state capitol following a threat to "bomb" the building.

An intensive search of the state House and Senate chambers was begun by 40 policemen following receipt of a telephone call to Harrisburg City Hall by a man who said he was "against taxes" and that he planted a bomb in the state capitol.

State officials said that while they believed the man was "a crank" they were taking no chances because of the home-made bomb that was found in front of the main capitol two years ago immediately after the inauguration of Gov. George M. Leader.

Everyone Alerted

John S. Rice, secretary of the Property and Supplies Department, alerted all department heads to the threat.

The caller to City Hall said he planted a "dynamite bomb" in the Capitol.

The 40 policemen, under Col. A. F. Dahlstrom, of the state police, and Capt. Lee H. Hamilton, of the capitol police, began a systematic search of the Republican-controlled Senate and House chambers. The House is slated to pass later today the three per cent sales tax with Senate amendments providing exemptions for public utilities, shipbuilders and manufacturers.

The governor was informed of the threat while holding his regular Monday conference with legislative leaders but he continued with the meeting.

Search Continues

State police found no trace of a bomb after an hour but continued their search. Dahlstrom ordered sergeants-at-arms of both chambers to admit only legislators and newsmen to the House and Senate. The galleries of the chambers were also locked.

State and capitol police were stationed at virtually all entrances to the Capitol.

Dahlstrom, deputy state police commissioner, said he believed the report was "a hoax."

"But we're taking no chances," he said. "We didn't get any word at all about where the bomb was supposed to be planted in the building, but the first places we looked at were the House and Senate."

Dahlstrom said that both state and capitol police would continue their search until they covered all 450 rooms in the Capitol.

Search Parties Seek Stranded Travelers in Midwest Blizzard

AMARILLO, Tex. (UP) — The edge of the worst spring blizzard in memory on the Great Plains wore off today and rescue parties started plowing through mountainous snowdrifts for stranded and frozen travelers.

They expect to find some. At least six persons—two in Texas—two in Kansas and two in Nebraska—perished in the storm and at least nine persons were missing in Oklahoma.

The blizzard, with raging winds that piled up drifts 40 feet long and 14 feet deep, covered parts of Texas, Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado, New Mexico, Nebraska and Missouri. It started Saturday.

Winds up to 80 miles an hour in velocity—five miles over minimum hurricane strength—started easing up about 3 a.m. today in the Texas Panhandle and the storm moved off Eastward. The wind blew up to 25 miles an hour long after daybreak in the Panhandle, but the snow had generally stopped.

All told, 4,000 persons were reported stranded—1,500 in the Texas Panhandle—and there probably were many more because communications were broken in many areas and conditions could not be reported.

Search For Stranded

Deputy sheriffs, National Guardsmen and police tore into drifts with trucks, bulldozers and tractors to find out whether any persons had been frozen to death in their stalled cars.

Temperatures in the Texas Panhandle were expected to get a little above freezing today, allowing a little thawing. But they were

Steel Prices to Go Up When Wages Increase

CLEVELAND (UP)—Steel prices will go up $5 to $6 per ton at midyear, when steelworkers receive a wage increase included in their three-year contract, Steel Magazine predicted today.

The steelworking publication said the hike will be made through upward revision of base prices—the same way prices were raised at the start of the contract last August, when common forms of carbon steel went up an average of $8.50 a ton.

"Employment costs increases this year will be about as much as last year, but producers will not pass them along in full," Steel said.

"Demand for steel is lighter, and the industry feels a responsibility to help restrain inflation."

One effect of the predicted price increase, according to Steel, will be an upturn in steelworks operations in May and June.

Steel production edged downward again last week to 94.5 per cent of capacity, one-half point lower than the previous week.

The publication said production would continue to decline until consumers begin adding to their inventories to beat the price rise.

Steel inventories in most plants are fairly low for the high rate of consumption, and most users will want to do some building of stocks before the price increase goes into effect," Steel said.

Plan Extension Of Ohio 'Pike

COLUMBUS, O. (UP)—Work on the Cincinnati to Conneaut highway took a big step forward today with the announcement by Highway Chief Charles M. Noble that consulting engineering contracts have been awarded for the leg between Columbus and Cleveland.

Noble also announced that formation of his inter-state highway "task force" has been completed and has begun work in new offices in the former Ohio Turnpike Commission building here.

The six consulting engineers were awarded contracts averaging 16 to 18 miles.

'Youth Cocktail' Banned by U. S. Food and Drug

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Food & Drug Administration said today it had stopped sales of something billed as a "fountain of youth" cocktail.

It said also that it had blocked traffic in a non-tranquilizing "tranquilizing drug."

It did this and other things in February. In the same month, the administration said in a report, it made 42 seizures totaling 271,600 pounds of contaminated products. It also stated nine criminal actions for alleged violations of the food, drug, and cosmetic act.

In addition to that, 239,000 pounds of foods unfit for human consumption were voluntarily destroyed by the owners under the watchful eye of food & drug inspectors.

The "fountain of youth" cocktail mix, the report said, was advertised by mail as a "royal jelly" capable of delaying old age and of rejuvenating the already old.

Among six drug seizures was a purported tranquilizer obtainable without prescription. The administration said it was a batch of sedative mixture containing commonly available ingredients. True tranquilizers, the agency said, can be bought only with a prescription.

Vigorous Debate Over Sales Tax Expected

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Republican-controlled House of Representatives today was slated to approve continuation of the three per cent sales tax today over objections of Democrats to amendments inserted by GOP senators.

A vigorous debate was expected when the legislation comes up for a final vote because of Senate amendments spelling out exemptions for public utilities, manufacturers and shipbuilders. They are termed by Democrats a "give-away" to business.

Meanwhile, Democratic state Chairman Joseph M. Barr suggested that Gov. George M. Leader go before the House and make a last-ditch attempt to knock out the Senate amendments.

The governor, in a brief statement, said "We are studying the bill very carefully in its present form but I have no comment now as to what our course might be."

Most of the other bills in the GOP $995-million tax package—already approved by the House—are scheduled to clear the Senate this week. They include reenactment of the six per cent corporate net income tax and the five cent pack cigaret tax.

The House Republican leadership has set its sights for final adjournment of the Legislature by early June.

House Majority Leader Albert W. Johnson said in a weekend statement that once the revenue bills clear the dockets the chamber will begin work on appropriation measures to bring the state's spending within the GOP proposed $1.5-billion budget, which is $100-million under the governor's estimated needs.

The House was also expected to act this week on a proposal for a joint Senate-House investigation of the state Highways Department and its road building projects and planning.

Three Accidents In Monessen Over Weekend

Three motor accidents occurred in Monessen over the weekend, police reported today.

Four cars were involved in one of the mishaps at Eighth street and Donner avenue shortly before noon Saturday.

Police said Mrs. David Herst, of 903 Fayette avenue, Belle Vernon, was traveling west on Donner avenue when she lost control of her car and struck cars operated by Daniel Wallace, of Main street, Pricedale, and Mrs. Dorothy Vernaccini, of 22 Montraver drive, Monessen. The impact forced the Vernaccini car into a car driven by Michael Senko, Jr., of 1128 Knox avenue, Monessen.

Stephen Chromulak, Jr., of 919 Summit avenue, Monessen, suffered a lacerated lip when his car rammed into a utility pole on East Donner avenue about 2 o'clock this morning. Police said he apparently fell asleep at the wheel.

In the third mishap yesterday afternoon, police said a hit-and-run driver struck a car belonging to John Kasper while it was parked in front of his home at 412 Second street, Monessen.

Lukens at Capacity Operations

COATESVILLE, Pa. (UP) — Lukens Steel Co., one of the country's top three producers of specialty steel plate, reported today it entered 1957 with a record high backlog some 20 per cent above 1956 and is now operating at full capacity.

President Charles Lukens Huston Jr. said in a separate message to shareholders accompanying the annual report "our order backlog grew despite records set in the sale of alloy and alloy-clad plate, in alloy, alloy-clad, and carbon steel heads, and in conversion rolling and processing."

He said the company now is "operating at full capacity to meet sustained high demand for steel plate."

The annual report showed, as has been previously reported, Lukens set new records last year in sales and earnings.

Sales rose to $105,173,925, from $97,850,937 in 1955, while net income climbed to $7,504,889, equal to $23 60 a common share (not adjusted for a three-for-one split declared in January, 1957) from $3,607,713 or $11.35 per share the previous year.

The report said that specialty steels accounted for two-thirds of Lukens' dollar volume last year.

State Subsidies for Patients Need Change

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader's Commission on Governmental Reorganization today recommended the Legislature revamp the state's method of assigning and supporting subsidized patients in private institutions.

The 10-member bipartisan group headed by Adjutant General Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Jr., said the responsibility of determining the eligibility of applicants for state care at private hospitals should be tranferred from the hospital to the state Public Assistance Department.

The commission termed "inefficient and wasteful" the present system by which the Welfare Department reimburses a hospital for its care of the patient on the basis of a report from the institution

"It must also be mentioned," the report said, "that political and other types of favoritism obtrude themselves, and some patients may be excused from paying who are capable of paying"

In addition the group suggested the state makes its reimbursement payments on a "purchase of services" basis, commensurate with the quantity and quality of the treatment given by the hospital. At the present time, private hospitals receive a flat sum of $8 per day for each state ward, "regardless," said the report, "of the quality or cost of the service"

"Payment should be made only for services which meet minimum standards of quality established by competent and recognized authority," it concluded.

Other recommendations relative to the Welfare Department were:

—Transfer to private agencies the 10 medical and surgical hospitals now administered by the department.

—Create a Board of Public Recreation in the Internal Affairs Department.

—Approve legislation making recreation facilities owned by school districts available to authorized municipal recreation authorities.

Nixon Discharged From Hospital

WASHINGTON (UP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon was discharged from Walter Reed Hospital Sunday after being treated for a cold he picked up on his tour of Africa

Hospital authorities said Nixon was "much improved" and that he was discharged after consultation with his doctors

Nixon entered the hospital Friday for treatment of tracheobronchitis. The vice president left the hospital Saturday for official duties. He returned that night after attending the annual dinner of the Radio-Television Correspondents Assn.

90 Minutes of Bach Scheduled for Sunday

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP) — Leonard Bernstein, composer - conductor-pianist-teacher - TV performer, will do the Bach bit for 90 minutes this Sunday on the season windup of "Omnibus."

William Ewald

Berstein, who has chauffeured is "Omnibus" audience through the art of conducting, Beethoven, musical comedy and jazz, will turn this weekend to the rarified regions of J. Sebastian Bach and the "St. Matthew Passion."

The passion is a pretty rough chew for the average customer, but Bernstein eyes it hungrily.

"I want to do it for two reasons" he said. "One is because it's my favorite Bach piece which is a pretty egotistical reason, I suppose.

"The other is because it shows an aspect of Bach that people don't associate with the man—his dramatic side. They think of him as the guy they had to practice when they were kids, the guy who wrote fugues."

Bernstein, who'll serve as co-conductor of the New York Phil harmonic next season, confesses to some concern about the future of longhair music on TV.

"Apart from the fact that it's not easy to get sponsorship for this kind of music and never has been, you run into the problem of presenting an aural experience in a visual medium," Bernstein said.

"Music is a journey through time — something I say quite often, much to my own boredom. But it's true. Now, a pop song usually is of sort duration—there isn't too much time for the viewer to be distracted. And you've often got a pretty girl up there to add to the visual appeal.

Demands Concentration

"On the other hand, what you call longhair music demands the utmost in concentration. If you miss 30 seconds of a Beethoven movement, you've missed the movement. I'm not sure what can be done about the problem of wedding TV and music, but I'm working on it — how, I'd rather not say."

Bernstein recently carried off an "Emmy" award for "best musical contribution to TV." He was nominated in two other categories — "best single program" and "best male personality in a continuing performance."

Bernstein, who hopes to work on "Omnibus" next season has several projects in mind — programs on the piano, opera and folk music.

"I'd like to do another one on jazz, too," said Bernstein. "I still have material we had to cut out because of the time problem. In fact, I have about a dozen shows lying around on the cutting room floor."

Dusting Powders Used For Medicinal Purposes

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Dusting powders have a definite use in the field of medicine.

Most of you, I dare say, have used such a powder from time to time. Maybe it was to prevent the spread of athlete's foot or some other skin disease, or to halt obnoxious odors.

Whatever the reason, the powders probably performed the job well. Let's see why.

The dusting powders your doctor recommends are fine, grit-free preparations. All have a common therapeutic value — protective action.

These powders lessen itching and burning sensations by clinging to the skin and forming a covering which helps protect the surface from contact with air and from the friction caused by clothing.

A waterproof powder may be useful when the skin is not excoriated or stripped from the wound.

Such powders have a physical affinity to fat and naturally cling to the surface of the skin. Because of this, they generally provide excellent protection against irritating watery discharges.

For an open wound, a water-absorbent dusting powder usually is better than a waterproof powder.

Bacteria and fungi need moisture to multiply.

Water - absorbing powders help dry the wound by absorbing fluids from the surface of the skin. Through such action, some powders do a great deal to hamper the growth of fungi or bacteria. It actually causes some condensation of the tissue, acting somewhat like an astringent.

One particular powder, which has a maize core, will absorb moisture up to nearly five times its weight.

It's important that these powders don't cake about the wound. If they do, they lose much of their drying powers.

The 4,000-year-old palace of King Minos was as large as London's Buckingham palace. It was located at Cnossus, Crete.

Lampoon Names 'Movie Worsts'

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UP)—The Lampoon, Harvard University's humor magazine, today named its "movie worsts of 1956." It tagged "The Ten Commandments" as the worst Hollywood motion picture of the year.

Gregory Peck was dubbed "worst actor of the year" for his performance as Captain Ahab in "Moby Dick," while Jennifer Jones won the dubious distinction of being "worst actress of the year" for her part in "The Man in the Gray Flannel Suit."

Bosomy Anita Ekberg was awarded a special "Emilo Boscoe Award" by "Lampy," the magazine's imaginary donor of "worsts."

Court Rules Against Teacher

No Pay for Period Suspended

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Pennsylvania Supreme Court ruled today Samuel M. Kaplan, a fired Philadelphia school teacher, can not collect pay for the period he was under suspension in a Communist investigation.

In the high court's ruling, Musmanno said the record showed Kaplan was a competent teacher in his field but it was reported he was devoting time to an organization which, if successful, would eventually have American children speaking Russian in a Russian state.

Ultimately dismissed from his job on Jan. 7, 1954, Kaplan appealed to state education authorities for re-instatement. At the same time he asked the Philadelphia court to order payment of his salary for the period during which he was under suspension prior to formal dismissal.

The Philadelphia Court ruled Kaplan was entitled to pay for the seven-week suspension period, but the city's school district won a reversal in the Pennsylvania Superior Court. Kaplan then carried his fight to the Supreme Court.

Dissenting from the majority ruling and declaring Kaplan was entitled to the pay, Chief Justice Charles A. Jones asserted the question of law was a "simple one" which no doubt would have been simply answered were it not for the fact that the real issue in the case became "submerged in an imputation that Kaplan was painted with past Communist affiliations."

Jones said Kaplan was not charged by the Philadelphia school board with having been a Communist or Red sympathizer and the Board of Public Education tried "to make it plain he was neither suspended or dismissed because of any alleged Communist association or sympathy."

Until a teacher has had a hearing provided for in the school code and there is a proper determination to dismiss him his pay cannot be cut off, Jones said.

The high court, in a split decision, upheld a Superior Court ruling which had thrown out a Philadelphia Common Pleas court ruling that Kaplan was entitled to $914.74 for the period from Nov 20, 1953, to Jan. 7, 1954.

Kaplan's appeal was a test case for 30 other teachers suspended in Philadelphia under similar circumstances.

The 12-page majority opinion held that Philadelphia schools Supt. Louis Hoyer had no alternative but to suspend Kaplan because . . . "anyone whose conduct is contrary to the aim and object of our schools system in providing the best education possible . . . can not expect to remain employed" as a public schools teacher.

Chief Justice Charles A. Jones dissented from the majority ruling.

New Philippines President for U. S. Friendship

WITH THE U.S. 7TH FLEET OFF THE PHILIPPINES (UP)—President Carlos P. Garcia reaffirmed his nation's friendship with the United States today shortly after watching a massive amphibious Marine landing on Luzon Island.

In a news conference on the beach where 20,000 U.S. Marines smashed ashore today in the biggest amphibious operation since World War II, Garcia said the U.S. amphibious operation was a "reassurance of the safety of the country."

Garcia also expressed his firm belief in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization and voiced strong opposition to the admission of Communist China to the United Nations.

He said he thought the continued close cooperation of the United States and the Philippines was essential to prevent the spread of Communism in "this part of the world."

There will be no change in the Philippine attitude toward Communist China, Garcia said. The Philippines, he said, was "always against" the admission of Communist China to the United Nations.

expected to drop to 24 degrees at night.

The blizzard hit so hard in Texas and Oklahoma because normally those sections do not expect blizzards. They are generally flat and exposed and are crossed by main transcontinental highways, upon which the motorists were stranded.

The blizzard, the worst to hit the Great Plains in years, started Saturday as screamin winds up to 90 miles an hour swept across the flat country, driving the snow before it like shotgun pellets and piling it into drifts that cut off all travel. At least 10 inches of snow fell in the stricken areas.

In the Texas Panhandle, lifelong residents of the area said it was the worst blizzard they had ever seen.

Cities and hamlets in Texas, Kansas and Nebraska were without electricity or telephone service.

Rock Island trains were stranded at Liberal, Pratt and Wissner Corner, five miles east of Meade, in Kansas. Union Pacific's crack City of St. Louis was stranded west of Winona, Kan., with about 400 persons aboard. Snowplow trains were trying to reach their stranded sisters.

Ate Dog Food

A rescue train left Amarillo late Saturday night for Boise City, Okla., where a bus was stranded. The train has not been heard from since it passed through Kerrick, Tex., some 23 miles north of Amarillo.

Outside Sublette, Kan., five persons were stranded in a grain elevator Sunday night. They had been there since Saturday, subsisting on boiled dog food. They broke into the elevator when their car slid into a ditch.

Most highways were open in Colorado, but in Texas, western Kansas and parts of Nebraska travel was still paralyzed.

Stockmen expected heavy losses of livestock, which have not been fed since Friday.

Held for Murder

ALIQUIPPA, Pa. (UP)— Isiah Smith, 31, Aliquippa, will be arraigned today before Justice of the Peace Nick Kosanovich on a charge of murder in the fatal stabbing of a companion.

Police Chief Charles Sorok said Smith, a Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. employe, admitted stabbing Fred D. Campbell Jr., 28, with a screwdriver during a scuffle in the Smith home early Sunday.

'Human Fly' Is Chief Suspect In Furs Theft

LONDON (UP) — Scotland Yard described today as "astonishing" the ease with which a burglar known as the "Human Fly" carried out a $42,000 fur robbery from a ledge 70 feet in the air.

The thief, whose operations around the fashionable Mayfair district of London have become notorious in the past two years, clung to a ledge high above the pavement to enter a fur storage house.

Police said that to get to his haul he had to:

—Make his way across a flat roof dividing the building from its neighbor.

—Jump across a 10-foot gap, landing on a ledge two feet wide and 70 feet up.

—Balance on the ledge while chiseling a hole through the wall of the building's fifth floor.

—Crawl through the hole and select the furs he wanted.

—Drop the furs to an accomplice waiting below, and —Make the ten-foot jump back to the other building.

the rackets group already is able to prove "certain facts showing the misuse of union funds by him (Beck)." He said turning over Beck's files would merely "expedite" the inquiry.

Beck told a TV audience a week ago he "borrowed" and repaid $300,000 to $400,000 from the Teamsters over the past 10 years. Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark) said Saturday the committee knows he took about $270,000 from union funds. McClellan said the committee had "no evidence" the money was "a loan" or a gift.

Before Beck's arrival, AFL-CIO Vice President Walter P. Reuther said the Teamsters boss should be expelled from the AFL-CIO Executive Council if he invokes the Fifth Amendment. Reuther, a council member, said on a television program he regarded Beck's alleged use of Teamsters funds for personal investment "highly improper, inexcusable and morally indefensible."

Another AFL-CIO vice president, James B. Carey, told another TV audience he thinks Beck's loans warrent his removal from the Teamsters Union. But he added this would have to be initiated by Teamsters members.

Carey said the AFL-CIO Executive Council should give the Teamsters Union a chance to "clean its own house" or face expulsion from the AFL-CIO.

IN FIGHT FOR ADOPTED DAUGHTER — Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Ellis are shown with their adopted daughter Hildy McCoy, five and a half years old, in Miami, Fla., where they were freed in custody of their attorney after they were arrested on alleged kidnaping charges. The State of Massachusetts is planning to extradite the Ellises, who have been waging a long fight to keep Hildy in defiance of a Massachusetts law which bans the adoption of children by foster parents of a different faith. The Ellises are Jewish. Hildy was born of a Catholic mother.

Greek Fish Peddler Happy Man Today

DAYTON, O. (UP) — John Sideras, a Greek fish peddler, who allegedly abducted his future wife a year ago in Greece was a happy man today.

His wife, Elaine, 22, gave birth Sunday to an eight pound one ounce son.

The couple courted by mail for five months, before Elaine and her mother traveled to Greece last year to meet Sideras.

The youngsters met, instantly fell in love and everything went fine until Mrs. Milton suddenly forbade the marriage.

The couple ran off and hid in Athens.

Mrs. Milton accused John of abducting her daughter. Angry words followed between the Sideras' of Greece and the Milton's of America.

Finally the couple came from hiding and told the families they would be married whether permission was granted or not.

The families relented and gave the couple their blessing.

George Milton, proud father of Elaine, met the couple with open arms.

He told them he wanted his arms filled with grandchildren.

"The more the better," said Papa Milton.

Mrs. Milton refused to comment on the birth of her grandson.

"We've had too much publicity over this thing. The children are happy and want to be left alone," said Mrs. Milton.

John, now a baker for a pie company, could not be reached for comment.

Prudential in Record Year

The Prudential Insurance Co. reported today its life insurance in force among Pennsylvania residents rose to an all-time high of $6,759,689,000 during 1956.

This was more Prudential insurance than was owned at the end of 1923 by all policyholders of the company in the United States and Canada.

Last year's record amount represented an increase of $672,979,000 over 1955.

The company's total life insurance in force throughout the United States and Canada at the close of 1956 came to $58 billion, up to $6.4 billion in a single year.

Bill Would OK Leasing Land Under Lake Erie

HARRISBURG (UP)—Administration legislation for leasing of Pennsylvania-owned land beneath the waters of Lake Erie for offshore oil and gas drilling will be introduced in the General Assembly today.

Gov. George M. Leader said in a week end statement the bill will be part of a package dealing with the development of natural resources on state-owned land.

"The prospect of drilling on the land beneath Lake Erie has aroused the interest of a good many oil companies, and if such exploration were successfully undertaken, all Pennsylvania would benefit by our increased economic and industrial growth," he said. "This bill opens the way to future exploration and at the same time guarantees that sound conservation practices will be followed under the direction of the Department of Forests and Waters."

McDonald Hits Back At Inflation Charges

PITTSBURGH (UP)— David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers, has taken issue with charges by U. S. Steel Corp. that inflation has become a permanent feature of American life because of union wage increases.

The leader of 1,200,000 steel workers said during the weekend that "Big Steel" criticized the union to "cover-up" rising profits and steel price increases.

"Once again, Roger Blough, chairman of the board, United States Steel Corp., has seen fit, through his annual report, to blast the steel worker employes and their union," McDonald said.

"This comes at a time when the report. . .shows the highest sales ever, the second highest profits on record and the largest dividends to the stockholders.

"Yet Mr. Blough would have the public believe that the union is the cause for recent increases in the cost of living and inflation which he says threatens to become a permanent feature of American life.

"To put it bluntly, Mr. Blough is making false charges."

Last week Blough, in a message to stockholders regarding 1956 operations, charged the "vast power of industry-wide labor unions" was the principal factor in making cost-price inflation "a permanent feature of American life."

The industrialist blamed unions for forcing annual increases in employment "far beyond increases, in productivity, automatically compelling inflation."

But McDonald contended that productivity — output of steel per man hour — "has more than offset the cost of the steelworkers wage increase in recent years."

McDonald said that even if steelworkers were not producing more steel per hour than before and the wage increase had raised unit costs, "the fact remains that the steel price increases have far exceeded any such additional 'cost'."

The union leader said steel prices went up to $8.50 per ton in mid-1956 while employment costs increases 20 cents an hour.

U S Steel, based on its own production figures, will receive 230 million dollars annually from price increases, he said.

Raise Corn Acreage

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate Agriculture Committee today approved a bill raising the 1957 base corn acreage from 37.5 to 51 million acres.

Civil Liberties Union Files Annual Report

NEW YORK (UP)—The American Civil Liberties Union today found "comfort," "encouragement" and "challenge" in its annual report on its work and the status of civil liberties throughout the nation.

"Liberty is always unfinished business," wrote Patrick Murphy Malin, executive director, in his preface to the report.

"Official administrative censorship, prior to the publication or mailing of books or magazines or the exhibition of motion pictures, is rapidly disappearing," Malin found on the credit side of the ledger.

"But notice also the wide and intense concern felt by newspaper reporters, editors and publishers as well as by a House of Representatives sub-committee over the concealment of federal, state and local government news (beyond the needs of national security, etc.), on which intelligent popular opinion and voting in large measure depend.

Allowance For Realism

"There has been increased allowance for realism and variety in subject-matter and treatment in the production of motion pictures. But there has come, too, the development of the general and secondary boycott against book-sellers and motion picture theaters, whereby religious and other groups not only exercise their right to guard their members from material believed objectionable, but also may keep other people from exercising their own judgment on that and other material."

Malin noted that "the United States Supreme Court continues unanimously to uphold equality before the law . . . but even the most modest program for improved federal civil rights legislation is still blocked . . . in educational desegregation, there continues to be steady progress, frequently unpublicized, in the border states. But we are still shocked by headlines of violence and economic reprisal, and the deliberate refusal of eight Southern states to comply with the law of the land—not to mention failures of federal, state and local authorities to desegregate public housing in northern states."

Most Crucial Situation

The ACLU said the fight for equal rights for Negroes today is being waged "in the midst of the most crucial situation since the nation was divided in 1861." It expressed concern over threats to the rights guaranteed by the First Amendment in attacks on Negro defense organizations such as the National Urban League and on white citizens supporting equal rights.

The ACLU said it will seek to broaden its own organization in the South during 1957 with a corps of volunteer lawyers to handle all kinds of civil rights cases.

The report found encouragement in the treatment of national security problems "with sanity instead of demagoguery" in the 1956 election campaign, in the Supreme Court's ruling that the Federal Employe Security Act does not apply to non-sensitive positions, in court action which is "gradually elaborating standards to be observed by the state department in the withholding or revocation of passports."

It found challenge, however, in the failure to settle the basic question of the First Amendment's limitation on legislative investigation, on "a rapid growth of state and local wiretapping — official and unofficial, legal and illegal," in the use by police of "'nightstick' justice in dealing with children of low - income, minority-group neighborhoods."

Leader Urging Some Revision Of Constitution

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader today urged the Legislature to take steps for revision or overhaul of the state's 83-year-old Constitution which he termed inadequate to meet Pennsylvania's "twentieth century needs."

Dr. Samuel P. Harbison

"We in Pennsylvania have reached the point where we can no longer disregard the inadequacy of our organized law," the governor said in a message to the lawmakers. "It is time we did something about it."

He proposed legislation to create a temporary 15-member Commission on Constitutional Revision, with a $175,000 appropriation, and with a directive to report its findings to the governor and the General Assembly early in 1959.

"It would have the duty of determining whether or not changes in our Constitution are advisable and, if so, how best we might effect them," he said. "If the commission concludes that we should proceed by amendment, it is empowered to recommend such a course, and to include, in its report, drafts of proposed amendment or amendments.

'Needs Revision'

"On the other hand, the commission may conclude that our Constitution needs general revision. In that case, it would collect, compile and analyze such information as it may deem useful to the delegates to a constitutional convention, and shall make any recommendation as to the substance of the revision it may consider appropriate."

The governor said the Commonwealth, because of economic development and social change since 1874 has been "forced to evade, by various makeshifts," a number of constitutional restrictions.

He cited as an outstanding example the state's $1,000,000 debt limit for capital purposes fixed by the Constitution which, he pointed out, has been by-passed by the authority type of financing.

"It (the Constitution) is freighted with provisions which treat the legislative branch of the state government with distrust; with provisions dealing specifically and inflexibly with various matters of public policy; with provsions hampering imaginative and broad-scaled attacks upon the pressing problems of urban and metropolitan living," he said.

County's Fight Against Cancer Begins Tomorrow

Westmoreland County's fight against cancer will officially begin April 1, but organizational lines will be formed tomorrow evening at a kickoff dinner for community chairmen in the Westminster Presbyterian Church, West Pittsburgh street, Greensburg.

Dr. Samuel P. Harbison, Pittsburgh surgeon and president of the Pennsylvania Cancer Society, will speak.

L. M. Potter, county chairman, will be toastmaster.

He said: "We want to give every resident of Westmoreland County an opportunity to join in this great humanitarian cause."

The dinner will begin at 6:30 p. m. A male quartet will sing.

West Elizabeth Plant to Get Safety Award

Ten months' operation without a diabling injury among its 150 members has won for the West Elizabeth plant of Fenestra, Inc., the safety certificate of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association.

James F. Malone, of Pittsburgh, Association president, announced today the 10 months' record represented 237,000 continuous man hours of production at the Allegheny county plant with no time lost by accident between Mar. 5, 1956, and Jan. 18, 1957.

In recognition, the PMA will present its special safety certificate, given to member firms with a record of 200,000 man hours without an accident, to R. E. Taft, company personnel director, at a meeting of supervisory employes in the plant, Thursday afternoon.

David L. Johnson, of Pittsburgh, PMA supervising safety engineer, will make the presentation in the presence of the supervisors and Herbert O'Hern and Joseph Tagnarine, union safety representatives, and David Brown, maintenance foreman.

The safety record of the three and one-half-year-old plant was accomplished while new employes were being trained in the fabrication of metal panels for the building industry. It was the longest no-accident run since the plant was opened in the summer of 1953.

Fenestra, Inc., with headquarters in Detroit, also operates plants at Erie and East Lansdowne.

Watch the Birdie!

FOUR GENTLEMEN OF MUSIC — These men with the golden voices are popularly known as "The Four Specs." This Lions Club quartet is apt to appear at almost any social event in the City. The men sing good—and they are gratis. Blending their voices are (l. to r.) David Victoria, Joe Lancas, Walter Labeka and James Tucci. They're so good they even end their singing together.

Tells Story of 18 Who Lived Through Two Atom-Bombings

NEW YORK (UP) — At least 18 persons lived through two atom bombings.

They survived the Hiroshima blast on Aug. 6, 1945, then went to Nagasaki and experienced another three days later.

American journalist Robert Trumbull tells the story of the twice tom-bombed Japanese in a book, "Nine Who Survived Hiroshima and Nagasaki" (Dutton, $2.95).

The victims recall the double holocaust in their own words—a picture of horror almost beyond belief.

The nine who could still be interviewed were an accountant, a ship designer, a newspaper publisher, an engineer, a dockyard laborer, a master kite maker and his three helpers. Their accounts are quite similar.

There is a blinding light, followed by a deafening blast. Seconds later comes the shock wave, and in those precious seconds it is possible to save oneself by taking shelter and lying flat.

Mushroom Cloud Rises

A dark pall of dust fouls the air as the gigantic mushroom cloud rises from the destruction. Fires rage. Charred bodies lie everywhere. The dead are soon joined by the worst of the torn and shredded human victims.

Some live through one, or even two, atom bombings and are able to talk about it almost 12 hours later. The double victims never sought to call attention to their remarkable experience until Trumbull sought them out.

One said, "I am giving this account gladly in the hope that it will help the world see that the atomic bomb should never be dropped again . . . I firmly believe we should build in each heart a wall against war."

The author takes note of certain odd aspects of the aftermath to Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Citizens of Nagasaki are a bit jealous of Hiroshima's fame as the first city to be pulverized in the atomic age. "If you have to be A-bombed," they said, "it is better that you be the first."

A Historical Term

Hiroshima residents' consciousness of their special place in history is often referred to, rather impatiently by other Japanese, as "Hiroshima-ism."

Conceding that use of the atom bomb was an inevitable development of scientific warfare, the author adds: "There are some people, even in Hiroshima, who are glad it was used when it was, so that the world may possibly be spared the threat of an all-atomic war in the future."

He observes that the Japanese bear no particular grudge for Hiroshima and Nagasaki, but since they have repeatedly apologized for Pearl Harbor, they feel that an apology is due from the United States for the atom bombings.

"At least, say the Japanese, if the United States apologized, they would feel better about the whole unfortunate business, and then, at least, all bygones would really be bygones," the author states.

Pittsburgh Steel Sales Promotion

Rodney R. Burns, 300 Old Farm Road, Mt. Lebanon, has been named assistant to the manager—sheet sales division, Pittsburgh Steel Co.

Burns, with Pittsburgh Steel since February, 1954, has been serving as a sales representative in the company's Pittsburgh district sales office.

Before joining Pittsburgh Steel, Burns had been associated with United States Steel Corp., Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. and two Pittsburgh steel warehouses.

Slovak Club to Honor Charter Members May 19

Two charter members and 16 25-year members of the Monessen Slovak Club will be honored at a banquet at the club on Sunday, May 19, John Kotch, Jr., president, announced today.

The banquet will also mark the grand opening of the recent new addition to the club at 335 Schoonmaker avenue. The expansion program includes the enlargement of the banquet hall and additional space for offices above the main floor of the building.

The two charter members are John Radacy, Sr., and John Kurey, Sr.

The club was granted its charter in 1908.

Senate Economy Drive Under Way

WASHINGTON (UP)—The congressional economy drive shifted into high gear today from the support of the Senate Republican leadership.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Calif), and Chairman Styles Bridges (NH) of the GOP Policy Committee both called for cuts in President Eisenhower's $71.8 billion budget.

They said in separate statements over the weekend that the cuts were necessary to clear the road for general tax reductions next year.

Knowland, who has said previously he expects the budget to be scaled down at least $2 billion, warned the administration to "put its house in order" regarding federal spending. He said Congress and the administration "must face up" to the need for reduced spending and tax cuts.

Bridges, who also heads the Appropriations Committee, said he had worked out a "scientific approach" for slashing $3.3 billion from the budget. His cuts would include $1.25 billion in foreign aid, $750 million in defense expenditures and $500 million in public works programs.

Other congressional news:

Civil Rights: Sen. Thomas E. Hennings Jr. (D-Mo) hoped to get the Judiciary Committee to act today on President Eisenhower's Civil Rights bill. Hennings' Constitutional Rights subcommittee, an arm of the judiciary group, approved the bill last week. He planned to bring it up at today's meeting of the full committee.

Presidency: Rep. Kenneth B. Keating (R-NY), ranking Republican on the House Judiciary Committee, proposed setting up a high-level commission that could decide if a U.S. president was incapable of carrying out his duties. In cases where the president could not or would not decide about his incapability, Keating's proposed commission would step in and take over the matter. He said the commission should be composed of representatives of the Senate and House, the Supreme Court and possibly the State and Treasury Departments.

GI Housing: The House called up for debate a bill to liberalize the government's program of direct loans to veterans in rural areas. The loans would be made when private funds for such loans are not available.

Bohlen: Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NY) said he will oppose the nomination of Charles E. Bohlen to be U.S. ambassador to the Philippines. Bridges, a member of the Senate GOP leadership, said Bohlen has not been "loyal to the secretary of state" and has not agreed with some of the secretary's views. He added he does not think Bohlen did a good job as ambassador to Russia.

Teamsters Union Rules Over Almost Everything That Runs

By MAUREEN GOTHLIN

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Teamsters Union's sprawling domain includes "everything on wheels that runs in the street" and then some.

The biggest union of them all stretches across the country, through the trucking industry into warehouses and businesses of all kinds. Its 1,500,000 members include women on food cannery assembly lines, brewery workers, dairy processors, construction workers, gasoline station mechanics and even some automobile salesmen.

Core of its power and influence, among other unions as well as industries, are the truck drivers who form the nucleus of its membership. They haul everything from our daily bread to automobiles fresh off the assembly line.

The trucking industry estimates three of every fou. tons of freight moved in this country is hauled on trucks at least part of its journey. Nearly 20 per cent of all freight between cities goes by truck, including most of the nation's livestock, poultry and eggs and more than half its fruits and vegetables. The industry estimates there may be around 150,000 trucking firms.

The union still has a long way to go to organize the entire industry but it has almost tripled its membership in the past 15 years. As a union dealing with thousands of firms, it deals from strength.

The Teamsters Union, for instance, is the target of a substantial number of the secondary boycott charges filed with the National Labor Relations Board.

The usual case centers on a non-union trucking company. Virtually all trucking companies operate within a limited area and depend on other trucking companies to carry the goods further. If Teamster members employed by other companies refuse to handle the goods, the non-union employer is under pressure to deal with the union to keep his business.

Where another union i on strike against a company dependent on trucks for supplies and deliveries, the decision by the Teamsters on whether to "honor" the picket lines or drive through them frequently can make or break the strike.

Reject No-Raiding Pact

The Teamsters is one of the few AFL-CIO unions that has refused to sign the AFL-CIO "no-raiding" pact prohibiting affiliated unions from taking members away from each other. Union President Dave Beck's argument is that other unions, particularly the brewery workers, have truck-driving or warehouse members who "belong" to the Teamsters.

Teamster leaders boast that their members' wage contracts are "the best in the country." Wage rates for over-the-road truck drivers in the Midwestern states are $2.30 an hour plus substantial fringe benefits.

The union is rich at both national and local levels although its minimum $3 monthly dues are about average among unions. This may be because of its size plus the fact that it never has any cash-consuming industry-wide strikes such as in the auto and steel industries.

The union has been the problem child of the labor movement in a number of situations in recent years. But the current Senate racketeering investigation is certainly the most sensational despite the union's power, influence and wealth, the investigation is expected to result in a showdown with the AFL-CIO soon.

Mrs. George Wenick will offer the prayer and Mrs. Anthony Jedrziewski will be in charge of the business session.

Recluse's Body Attacked by Dogs She Befriended

IONIA, Mich. (UP)— The body of an elderly woman recluse was found Sunday almost devoured by the pack of 10 dogs she kept in her hillside shack on the city's outskirts.

Police said Mrs. Edna Palmer, 66, apparently became ill a few days ago and took to her bed where she died. Her body was discovered by a neighbor, Fred Martinies, who went to Mrs. Palmer's house to investigate when he did not see the woman for four days.

Martinies notified police. The officers had to shoot two of the dogs before they could force their way into the house. The rest of the pack fled into the countryside.

Police said the dogs were shut in the house, unable to get out when the woman died. They said the animals evidently became ravenous and attacked the body.

Surprise Birthday Party on Friday

A surprise birthday party was held on Friday evening in honor of Mrs. John Stankovics, at the home of Mrs. Wallace Ramoski, of Charleroi.

The evening was spent in playing cards and prizes were won by Mrs. Ramoski and her daughter, Dolores.

A late dinner was served and centering the table was a two tiered birthday cake baked by the hostess.

Also attending were Mrs. Velma Radock, daughter of the honored guest and other friends and relatives.

Repair Earthquake Damage

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — Residents of San Francisco and its suburbs, hopeful that there would be no more big earthquakes for a while, today began repairing the damage left by the biggest temblor since 1906.

Many housewives, aided by their husbands and children, spent the last two or three days sweeping up the broken dishes, glassware and household articles that tumbled pell-mell onto the floors of several thousand homes last Friday.

But today came the more serious problem of cleaning up and repairing cracked plaster, cement foundations, broken windows and other damage to homes and stores.

The quake shook an area of central California roughly between Ukiah, Sacramento and Hollister, but the western part of San Francisco and suburb to the southwest, Daly City, bore the brunt of it.

Will Congress Act?

AS WE continue to read the sensational disclosures about the Teamsters Union which are coming from the Senate's special investigating committee, the thought keeps recurring that Congress itself is on trial in such situations. And we keep wondering whether, after the Hoffas and Brewsters and Becks have faced their tests and the investigators have had their moments in the headlines — we wonder whether the members of Congress will face up to their test.

We mean just this: it is one thing to find something wrong in the functioning of labor unions; but it is likely to be another thing to adopt the laws necessary to correct these wrongs and to prevent them from recurring.

The affairs of labor unions have long required closer regulation in the public interest as well as in the interest of union members. This was apparent even before Victor Riesel, the labor columnist, had acid thrown in his eyes by union racketeers. It was apparent, too, before anybody in Washington thought it might be a good idea to have a look at the way the Teamsters Union bought Dave Beck's palatial home and then told him to live in it for life. And there has been a growing body of evidence to suggest that some union welfare funds were being handled mighty loosely.

But while such conditions have been known for a long time, Congress until very recently had studiously looked the other way. Union leaders, the bad as well as the good, have continued to be regarded as sacred cows. And it still remains to be seen whether, after the McClelland committee has quit making its headlines, Congress can find the political guts to do what needs to be done.

On the record of past performance, we doubt that it can.

Our Big Task

RECENT developments in the Middle East are tending strongly to suggest that the Eisenhower administration has decided to increase Amercian diplomatic, and consequently military, commitments in that part of the world.

Nobody needs to be surprised about this, of course. The Eisenhower doctrine was the tip-off on the administration's decision. In a broad and general way it deepened our obligations.

But now the details are being filled in. We have acquired, apparently, a new obligation of some sort towards Israel. There is a difference of opinion between Tel Aviv and Washington as to precisely what this obligation is, but there can hardly be any dispute about the fact that we have underwritten the main "assumption" of Israel that it would not again be harrassed by Egyptian commando raiders.

Now, from Bermuda, comes word that the United States is ready to participate actively in the military features of the Baghdad Pact, which erects a barrier against Communism reaching from Turkey, where the NATO line ends, to Pakistan.

This new commitment also makes sense, both because the idea for the Baghdad Pact was originally an American idea and because without American support, the barrier really wouldn't be much of a barrier.

Some people may be worried by these extensions of our obligations. An old military principle says that you must not spread yourself too thinly.

But in reality about all the administration is doing is to spell out an American commitment of which both our people and the rest of the world have been aware for a long time. And that is our commitment to fight, if necessary and where necessary, to prevent Soviet Communism from conquering the world.

We assumed that obligation a decade ago — and few Americans would think of modifying it.

We're All Ears

NOW THAT the candidates are officially entered in the May primary contests, we hope they will soon seek opportunities to tell the people why they are running and why they think they should be elected.

Our political campaigns in this district usually produce a lot of intense activity. But they are seldom noteworthy for the information they elicit about the purposes of the individual candidates. As a rule, about all we get are some unsupported assertions that the candidate is "honest," "qualified" and "experienced". Usually we are left to guess what he might do if he got elected.

So let's have it on the line, ladies and gentlemen. Why does your town need you on its council or school board? Suppose the people elect you mayor or burgess — what's in it for them? Let's hear your ideas about what your community needs.

Candidates: you have the floor. We're all ears.

Merry-Go-Round—

Lausche on Trail of Big Financier

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Ohio's Sen. Frank Lausche, much publicized at the opening of Congress, hasn't been getting many headlines lately, but he has been doing some quiet and effective homework.

The other day he yanked the Securities and Exchange Commissioners, supposed to be the policemen of Wall Street, up to Capitol Hill for a secret grilling as to why they hadn't policed the manipulations of the amazing Hitler refugee, Leopold Silberstein, who seeks to acquire Fairbanks, Morse.

Mr. Pearson

Lausche pointed to what seemed to be three violations by Silberstein or his Penn-Texas Corp. He wanted to know why the SEC hadn't referred them to the Justice Department.

J. Sinclair Armstrong, handsome young SEC chairman who is anxious to slide over to a job as Assistant Secretary of the Navy before getting involved in too many Wall Street squabbles, was peeved. He complained that previous closed-door testimony before Senator Lausche had leaked, had no plausible excuse for not referring possible violations to the Justice Department.

Senator Lausche, dissatisfied, polled the individual commissioners. A majority of them agreed with Armstrong.

Refugee Silberstein is an astute, fast-moving financial wizard, who during his eight short years in the USA has built up a corporation controlling Colt Arms, part of "Pratt-Whitney", "(a machine-tool company, not the company that builds Pratt-Whitney engines,), Elyria Foundry, Liberty Aircraft Products, Industrial Brownhoist, Quickway Truck Shovel, Hallicrafters Co., and who now seeks to acquire Fairbanks, Morse, old-line makers of scales.

Financial Wizardry

The three possible violations of the SEC laws which Lausche pointed to were: (1) failure to disclose promptly to the SEC and Penn-Texas stockholders various transactions in Fairbanks, Morse stock; (2) failure to disclose certain transactions with Swiss banks; (3) failure to disclose promptly certain profits arranged by Silberstein with people he induced to buy stock.

The negotiations are complicated but important, in view of some fears that another depression might be in the offing. A big stock bubble, bursting on Wall Street, might help spark a financial toboggan. Here are some of Silberstein's manipulations:

Manipulation No. 1 — David L. Subin, Lansdale, Pa., hosiery manufacturer, has been on the board of Penn-Texas or closely related to its financial dealings since 1951. Yet last week Silberstein filed a sworn statement with the SEC that he had not known until March 14, 1957 that Subin on Aug. 1, 1956 had sold 30,700 shares of Fairbanks, Morse stock to English Transcontinental Ltd. of London, which then sold or transferred the stock to the Union Bank of Switzerland, and that the bank on the same day sold them to Silberstein's company, Penn-Texas.

Silberstein admitted in his sworn statement that these shares were acquired through Francis I. DuPont and Co., and that his son-in-law, Peter Cats, working as broker for that firm, "serviced the account." Son-in-law Cats has a direct phone to Silberstein's desk, yet Mr. S. claimed he knew nothing about the transaction until March 14 when, belatedly, it was filed with the SEC.

Incidentally, more than one-half of the $36,000,000 worth of stock Silberstein bought in his battle to take over Fairbanks, Morse, passed through the hands of his son-in-law.

Manipulation No. 2 — Silberstein also informed the SEC that on March 14 he learned for the first time that Jacques Sarlie, who has been director of a Penn-Texas subsidiary since 1953, sold 10,000 Fairbanks, Morse shares to English Transcontinental Ltd. on Aug. 1, 1956, which on the same day sold them to Penn-Texas.

No Protection

The SEC has information that "English Transcontinental Ltd." has always been the personal forwarding address of Silberstein when he goes to England.

Manipulation No. 3 — Mr. S. bought over 100,000 shares of Fairbanks, Morse from Simon Jaglom, with offices in the same building, but made no prompt disclosure, as required by law.

Manipulation No. 4 — Silberstein bought over 100,000 shares of Fairbanks, Morse from Sarlie, who also has an office in the same building, but made no disclosure to the SEC until February 1957.

The last bloc of Fairbanks, Morse stock Silberstein contracted to buy from Sarlie was for delivery later this year. In an agreemeent made Jan. 28, 1957, Silberstein was to take delivery from Sarlie of 60,000 shares of Fairbanks, Morse stock in May, June and July of this year, at a price of $69.875 per share, thus guaranteeing Sarlie a profit of $600,000.

If, however, Sarlie offers the shares to Silberstein and Silberstein doesn't have the money to pay, it is agreed that Sarlie can dump them on the market and Silberstein's Penn-Texas will make up the difference. To indemnify Sarlie, it was agreed that Penn-Texas would deposit $1,000 000 in cash to protect the transaction

From Washington—

Middle East Still Explosive

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

The candid judgment in Washington is that the Middle East crisis is going to become more explosive, not less, during the coming weeks.

Most U. S. officials take an increasingly gloomy view of Egyptian President Nasser's uncooperative, even "provocative," attitude since the withdrawal of Israeli forces.

Mr. Drummond

Thus far President Nasser has done nothing to improve the climate for peace since the United Nations and the United States rescued him from the Anglo-French-Israeli invasion.

Cairo has "announced" that it will continue to deny the Suez Canal to Israeli shipping, which means that Egypt asserts the right to use the restored canal as an instrument of national politics. That would be a clear repudiation of the "six principles" for the operation of the Suez unanimously approved by the U. N. Security Council and accepted by the Egyptian government.

Nasser Moving in

Gen. Nasser appears to be persistently — and successfully — elbowing the United Nations forces out of the Gaza Strip from which so many harassing raids were launched against the Israeli frontier.

Although the U. N. General Assembly approved the function of the U. N. Expedimonary Force "to help maintain quiet during and after" the withdrawal of Israeli troops, Gen. Nasser is doing everything he can to undercut the U. N. either as a means of helping to administer Gaza or to guard the border.

Either Nasser will prevail or the U. N. will prevail — and that is the nub of it right now.

It is true that one Israeli freighter has sailed down the Gulf of Aqaba to the Red Sea undisturbed by either Egypt or Saudi Arabia in using its "rights of innocent passage" through international waters.

But it is too soon to consider even this issue settled. Cairo continues to talk about barring Israeli ships from plying the waters through which they must pass to reach the Israeli port of Elath. It may soon by more than talk because Egyptian troops are now reported to be moving toward Sharm el Sheikh where installati as survey the Gulf of Aqaba.

President Nasser justifies these anti-Israel practices with the assertion that Israel "must not be rewarded for aggression." This is an empty justification.

If the basis for discrimination against Israeli ships in the use of the Suez and the Gulf of Aqaba is the recent invasion, then there was no basis for such discrimination before the invasion.

Of course, Israel should not be "rewarded for aggression," but it is not "reward" for Israel to receive the fair and impartial treatment which she, in right, deserved to receive and the denial of which helped to bring on the invasion.

The United Nations Assembly has overwhelmingly condemned both the Israeli invasion and Egypt's discriminations against Israel.

Now that Israel has obeyed the U. N. resolution, are we to accept the fantastic Egyptian contention that Egypt does not need to cease its provocations on the ground that to do so would "reward" Israeli.

All these are the reasons why the hardest tests in the Middle East still lie ahead for the United Nations and the United States.

For years the U. N. "resolved against" but did nothing to stop the Egyptian provocations against Israel. Will it act effectively if these provocations are, in fact, resumed?

We shouldn't overlook the fact that the U. N. did not get Israel out of Egypt. It was the U. S. which persuaded Israel to withdraw after we assured Premier Ben-Gurion that we would actively and energetically work to realize the "assumptions" on which she was withdrawing: freedom for Israeli shipping, freedom from the Gaza raids.

In many ways Israel is today resting her safety and, perhaps even her survival upon the good faith and good offices of the United States. If Mr. Nasser continues in his present course, the U. S., by itself and through the U. N. will be called upon to prove that these "assurances" are strong, not weak.

The peace and stability of the entire Middle East will be at stake.

Peoples Forum—

Favors Fluoridation

To the Editor:

We have organized a Citizens' Committee consisting of representatives from the PTA, church, service and social groups, medical and dental groups, teachers, Chamber of Commerce and businessmen, for the purpose of urging appropriate action by the Authority of the Borough of Charleroi to provide for the fluoridating of our water supply.

Water fluoridation is the adjustment of the fluoride content of a water supply to a level which reduces the incidence of tooth decay. When the story of fluoridation is examined, it becomes clear that its development as a recognized public health measure began in 1906. Comprehensive studies and controlled experiments have been conducted since that date by professional scientists.

The results of their findings show striking reductions in dental decay in the five, six and seven-year-old children. Children who were seven years old when water fluoridation was instituted and used this water until they were 16 years of age have nearly 30 per cent less decay than 16-year-olds who never used fluoride water. The most careful and extensive pediatric examinations of the hundreds of children drinking fluoridated water have disclosed no harmful effects of any sort which could be attributed to the consumption of water containing fluoride.

These studies provide convincing evidence of the health benefits of fluoridation, and its safety, economy and proven benefit in reducing the incidence of dental decay already have been fully endorsed by every scientific and professional organization concerned with the public health.

Since dental decay is one of the five most prevalent diseases to mankind, and since it has been proven that fluoridation will control the amount of tooth decay, we hope to obtain the endorsement of the majority of our citizens in this health measure. Fluoridation which offers improved health and appearance and which lowers the need for dental care deserves a high priority in any forward-look ing community.

Mrs. John R. McGovern,
Chairman
Monessen Committee for Water Fluoridation

The Lighter Side—

Tipping 'Incongruous To American Ideals'

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—A gentleman lately come home to America after 12 years in the Orient checks in today with a considerable gripe about the high cost of tipping in this country, a living hazard he had largely forgotten about during the last decade.

"I guess you'd call it righteous indignation on my part," he said. "But it was the first thing that struck me.

"You just try travelling around the United States for a couple of months with three kids and a wife and you'll see what I mean. The thought even occurred to me, while coming across the country by train, that it would be a heck of a good thing for a presidential candidate to have an abolish-tipping plank in his platform—although I suppose it would lose him a lot of votes from the groups that have developed the pattern that they've got to be tipped.

No Service Rendered

"The first tip-off on tipping came on the ship over. You find that some of the people who are allegedly there to give service are not worth a damn until the day before you land. Then they're all smiles and unctuous bows.

"When you look at the custom from a national angle it actually seems kind of funny."

Funny? How's that?

"The humorous side to me," he said, "is the picture of all these middle-class Americans being forced to tip other middle-class Americans and nobody being proud enough to refuse, on either side. I don't want to sound pompous but the whole institution of tipping seems to me to be incongruous to the American ideal.

"Tipping would be much more logical in the Orient because there in many places you do have a menial working class that could expect to be tipped by the class that has money."

How does it work in the Orient?

No Spare Change

"Well, in Japan at last, they add a surcharge to the bill in a restaurant. It's practically always 10 per cent. You do tip a bellhop for carrying your bags if you're traveling.

"As for barbers, when they hand you your change they give you the correct amount, without a lot of spare change thrown in as an indication that they expect a tip."

This man has been traveling, visiting relatives, through the Middle West, Far West, South, and East, and his impression is that tipping has reached a constant-menace level for travelers in all sections, including the rather rural ones.

It put him in a state of shock to return home and learn that in some places even butchers are expecting tips for choice cuts—or even ordinary cuts. He advances the theory that tipping soon may go on a vertical kick, working its way into the palms of elevator operators in business buildings.

Tsk, tsk. You can imagine the elevator signs: "Tips now being collected for all floors." If the amount were based on the altitude reached, visiting places like the Empire State Building could be a pretty steep business.

The Woman's View—

Women Valuable in Modern Economy

By Mrs. ALICE K. LEOPOLD
Assistant to the Secretary of Labor, for Women's Affairs

WASHINGTON (UP) — Mrs. America has bought herself a brand new hat.

It is not as fancy as some others, has a trifle less frill to it—for it's a working hat. It might be a bonnet for a church meeting, a beret for a community meeting at town hall, a simple tailored hat for a government conference.

For American women have stepped into countless new fields of endeavor in the past decade.

A combination of factors made the last year an outstanding one for women workers. The favorable economic climate enabled them to achieve an all-time high in employment—there were almost 22-million women workers.

Skills Open Doors

Their skills, through their increasing use of educational and training facilities, opened doors to new opportunities and brought them a growing recognition.

It is predicted that 10-million workers will be added to the nation's working force by 1965. Of this number, more than half will be women. Women have gained entrance into almost every field. Their star is bright today and will take an additional glow as time goes on.

Women have worked hard to attain a position approaching equality with men in business and industry. And during the past half century, they have proved they can do the job. Now it is up to executives to give them additional "breaks" in higher posts.

Changing Economy Helps

The changing economy will help because the economic planners are looking to women as a major source of skilled labor. Shortages of scientific and technical personnel put a premium on women in high-grade occupations. So, their future is bright!

Opportunities combined with proper training will make women's place in the working force a secure one. It will take them from the realm of jobs formerly regarded as "woman's work", into top-ranking ones.

In fact, the number of women radio operators, veterinarians, surveyors, technical engineers, draftsmen, chemists, airplane pilots, accountants, pharmacists and clergymen, though still relatively small, more than doubled in the decade up to 1950.

It's a sign of the times.

The changing economy . . . has demanded and will continue to demand the recognition of our country's capable women.

Scouts Entertained At Skating Party

About 175 Intermediate Girl Scouts of Monessen enjoyed a skating party at the Riverview Arena on Saturday morning from 10 o'clock until noon. There were 10 Scout Troops represented and for each eight girls in attendance there was a leader to serve as counselor.

The girls were guests of the Monessen Girl Scout Council and skated free of charge, however, if they wished to use shoe skates provided by the rink they paid this charge.

The skating activity was arranged under the direction of the Council activities committee with Mrs. William Houy and Mrs. Julia Amendola in charge.

The Senior Girl Scouts do not participate in the skating program.

Brownie Program

The many troops of Brownies make it necessary for a different schedule to be arranged for the younger girls. The Brownies have about four skating parties in order to accommodate the number of girls wishing to attend. They are scheduled at different times during the year and are arranged by the Brownie activity committee.

The various troops are assigned their day to skate and then are accompanied by leaders, who supervise the Council financed activity. The last Brownie skating party was held two weeks ago.

Beta Sigma Phi Chapter Honors Rushees at Party Held at Major Home Here

One of the highlights of the spring rushing season for the members of Eta Zeta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi was a party held last night at the home of Mrs. Stephen Major, of Center Drive.

Honored guests for the occasion were Mrs. Stephen Spontak, Mrs. Rudy Benedetti, Mrs. Charles Penwick and Sonya Andercheck.

The president of the chapter, Mrs. Jack Sonafelt, opened the evening's activities by extending a welcome and introducing the four guests of honor, who are prospective members of the sorority.

Buffet Luncheon

The serving of a buffet luncheon followed and all appointments were in keeping with the chapter's colors, black and gold.

The luncheon and the evening's program was arranged by the social committee of which Jane Bost is chairman. She was assisted by Sally Kachmarik and Claudia Koltash.

Aiother guest for the evening was the chapter sponsor, Mrs. William Houy.

The remainder of the evening was highlighted by feats of hypnotism presented by a Pittsburgh guest, John Macura, who was accompanied by his wife in performing his unusual feats.

The second event of the spring rushing season is the annual preferential tea, which will be an event of next Sunday afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Wallace Byron, 916 Graham street, Belle Vernon. Mrs. Byron will serve the chapter next year as president.

Rushees, who were unable to be present at last night's party were Mrs. Ronald Campana, Mrs. Richard Kennedy and Mrs. Emil Beck.

Mrs. Jessie Ross Is Honored at Social Event

Mrs. Jessie Mae Ross, of Paw Paw, Michigan, a former district resident, was guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower held on Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Horner, of Lower Crest avenue, Charleroi. The guest of honor is a niece of the Horners.

Leota Voelker was in charge of games during the evening and the prizes were received by the guest of honor, Mrs. Mae Horner, Mrs. Ida Tobacco and Mrs. Mildred Hans.

A pink and blue ruffled umbrella made by Miss Voelker provided the decoration for the table where the many gifts were arranged. They were presented to her and opened at the close of the evening.

Flash pictures were taken of Mrs. Ross, a bride of last June.

Luncheon was served by Mrs. Horner assisted by Miss Voelker.

The honored guest then entertained the guests by showing them colored slides of Panama, North Carolina, Washington, D. C. and of her wedding last summer.

Guests attended the party from Monessen, Belle Vernon, Donora, Charleroi, North Charleroi and Monongahela.

"Trompe d'oeil"

James V. Bonafed

THE FRENCH have a phrase for a pretty trick: Trompe d'oeil. "Fool the eye"! Some of our loveliest stage and screen stars use "trompe d'oeil" to advantage. That's why we admire them when they're forty and fifty—or even more! You, too can use "trompe d'oeil" methods . . . for exciting beautiful results that please your public!

**

OUR OWN special kind of "trompe d'oeil" sorcery can subtract years from your age, minimize those circles under your eyes, subtract from a too-long nose or a double chin! Our secret: a new hairdo... What a difference it makes in you!

**

Are you a round-faced darling? You can lengthen your face to oval-like proportions with witchery of bangs! We'll use just a few pretty fringe-like bangs for you—off-center, to one side of the forehead only. (. . . see how young and pretty you look!)

**

BANGS are the trickery also needed by the lady with a too-high forehead, or an irregular hairline. Perhaps you can wear our favorite "inverted horseshoe" banks. (They're just as lucky as they sound . . . and ten times prettier!)

**

A protruding chin may look firm but it's not too feminine; If your chin is too prominent, never wear your hair cut off perfectly smooth in back. You need softness at your neck!

**

Our new "Swan" supplies the soft hair styling needed for too-hollow cheeks or too-deep smile lines. If your problem is lank, lifeless hair, we'll solve it with another modern kind of magic: A fine new professional permanent wave. (Ahh, the beautiful difference!)

Plan Swimming Pool at Nemacolin

Work will begin soon on a swimming pool at Nemacolin Country Club. The pool will measure 42 feet in width, 82.6 in length, which is standard Olympic size . . . By the way, the project will cost a reported $75,000. It will be financed through the sale of "participating certificates." . . . Jay Livziey, a Penn State football player, has a 3.82 academic average. That's just shy of perfection . . . Larry Pfeister, veteran scorekeeper at Monessen High basketball games, is assisting Roy DeRocco with the coaching duties of the Greyhound undergrad team in the current Ozark Tournament. Naturally enough, the quint is sponsored by the Monessen Greyhound Bus terminal.

County Tourney Financial Success

The 1957 Westmoreland County basketball tournament drew 6,352 paying customers. That was better than the '56 attraction which lured 5,922 fans through the turnstiles . . . Incidentally, look for more tourneys to be staged at the Hempfield High gym. The success of the recent floor show practically assures future county events for Hempfield . . . More than a million dollars worth of sports equipment will be displayed at the second annual Pennsylvania Recreation and Sportsmen's Show this week in the Farm Building at Harrisburg. A quarter of a million spectators are anticipated during the five-day event.

More Honors for Nick Kotys

Monongahela's Ed Barantovich, vacationing in Florida, sends along a clipping which reports more honors for Nick Kotys, the Monessen product. Nick, now at Coral Gables High, has won another "Coach of the Year" award, this one offered annually by Florida State University in conjunction with the school's annual coaching clinic. With the award goes a $300 fee for serving on the clinic faculty . . . Here's a quick quote from Pitt basketball coach Bobby Timmons: "They're getting stricter on academic eligibility in colleges. The first thing we look for anymore is the athlete's grades. Only then do we consider his athletic ability."

Anthony Eyes Eventual Shot at Training Pal

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) —Tony Anthony, a music-happy mauler with a suspicious chin, is looking toward the light-heavyweight championship today as a means of having a fight with his best friend.

Anthony is the 22-year-old piano and trombone player from Harlem who meets Michigan State alumnus Chuck Spieser at Detroit on April 5. The winner faces ancient Archie Moore for the light heavyweight crown.

The hard-hitting Tony hopes to win them and then challenge his current training camp pal, Floyd Patterson, for the world heavyweight title.

Close Friends

These two have been close friends since both were on the 1952 Olympic boxing team. And now, as Anthony trains at Greenwood Lake, N. Y., for his Spieser engagement, Patterson hands down daily tips from his seat on the throne.

Anthony has his work cut out for him, at least according to the oddsmakers. They quote Spieser as a 5 to 2 favorite for the Detroit embroglio. The answer is the dubious quality of the Anthony chin.

After winning the 1951 and 1952 Golden Gloves championships, Anthony turned pro with a splash as he won his first eight bouts by knockouts.

But then he was flattened. Tony came back to win 10 in a row, six by knockouts. Then he was flattened again. Rebounding, he won three more in succession. You're right. He was knocked out again. After which he won two by knockout—and again was kayoed himself.

"All that time," defends Manager Ernie Braca, "we were trying to keep him a middleweight, because there was more action in that division. The result was that it weakened him."

So, they contend, they let him grow naturally into a light heavyweight and since then he has scored six in a row, knocking over four of those opponents. That gives him a record of 29 wins, 22 by knockouts, against those four blackouts he suffered.

Spieser seems to be more of the same. He has won 20, of which 14 were knockouts. But of his four losses, he had the curtains drawn on him twice.

Wilt the Stilt Is Outstanding

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—North Carolina won the championship, but Wilt Chamberlain of Kansas outscored and outrebounded Lennie Rosenbluth, plus getting more votes as the "most valuable player" of the NCAA basketball championships.

Chamberlain was the only unanimous choice for the all-tournament team selected by 50 members of the press and radio, and also won the most valuable award over Rosenbluth, 17-15.

Pete Brennan, 6-6 junior forward for North Carolina; John Green, sophomore center for Michigan State; and Gene Brown, junior for San Francisco, also were named to the all-tournament team.

Sharon Tops Altoona Five

Bengals to Meet Oliver Wednesday

By BURTON W. SIGLIN

At least two new state champions will be crowned during this climactic week of the month-long PIAA state champion basketball playoffs.

Fountain Hill's Class "B" state titlists are still in the running but Farrell and Jenkintown, the Class "A" and "C" winners last year cannot repeat.

The playoffs have reached the point where there are four survivors in each of the three classifications. Three Class "A" contenders —Coal Township, Erie Strong Vincent and Altoona were eliminated in regional semi-finals over the weekend.

Unbeaten Sharon will pit its 26-0 record against Pittsburgh Oliver in the western final at the Pitt Field House Wednesday. The same night Reading and a surprising Chester team will clash at Hershey to determine the eastern representative. Sharon and Chester are favored to come through to the finals.

Chester Again

If Chester's District One kings get past Reading, it will mark the third time in four years that the Clippers have been in the state championship game. Chester lost in the finals to Farrell in 1954 and was defeated by McKeesport in the climax game of 1955. The clippers have won 25 and lost but two.

Reading, which rallied in the second half to eliminate Coal Township Saturday, 38-32, has not appeared in a state finals since 1934. Sharon's last appearance came in 1953 when she was beaten by Yeadon. Pittsburgh Oliver has never gotten to the finals.

Sharon downed Altoona handily, 63-47, in Saturday night's interdistrict clash. The Mountain Lions folded in the latter part of the game after holding Sharon to a 25-25 tie at halftime.

C Semi-Finals

The state semi-finals in Class "C" are slated for tonight with Fleetwood of District 3 clashing with the District 2 representative, Foster Township at Slatington. In the western game Williamsburg, of District 6, clashes with Sykesville's Dstrct 9 titlsts at Junata Juniata College at Huntingdon. The Class "C" title game is slated for March 29 but no site has been selected.

Tomorrow night the Class "B" eastern and western finals will will find defending state champion Fountain Hill running up against Ashley, of District 2 at Hazleton and Shannock Valley's WPIAL kings playing Mercer, of District 10 at Farrell.

St. Vincent's of Plymouth won the state Catholic school title by upsetting defending state champion St. Casimir of Pittsburgh, 76-55, at Hazleton Saturday. Both teams had been unbeaten and the loss was the first for St. Casimir in 4 games. Bob Mullery, who in one contest this year scored 92 points, tallied 40 in the game to pace the winners.

WPIAL Baseball Begins April 8

The WPIAL baseball program has been trimmed from 21 to 19 sections this season. Valley teams will compete as Section 17, instead of the former Section 19 tag.

Mike Oriss. of North Braddock, chairman of the WPIAL Baseball Committee, said today that the realignment was necessary since the number of participating schools has dwindled to 98.

The season will begin April 8, a week earlier than usual. This should give schools more time in which to complete their regular schedule.

Ordinarily the weather plays havoc with the schedule. As a matter of fact, more and more schools are dropping baseball as a varsity sport because of the weather factor.

Valley Teams

Once again the valley section which include Monessen, Charleroi, California, Monongahela, Donora and Bellmar.

Charleroi is the defeneding valley champion while Haf-Brack is the WPIAL king.

Opening games this year will send Bellmar to Monessen, Charleroi to California and Monongahela to Donora.

The WPIAL Baseball Committee is comprised of Oriss; John Conte, Monongahela; Al Dunn, New Kensington; Mike Serene Ambridge; and Don Hall, Burgettstown.

Here is the complete league schedule:

Pirates Trip Phillies Again

CLEARWATER, Fla. (UP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates will try to make it four in a row over the Philadelphia Phillies today.

The Pirates won their third straight over their Pennsylvania opponents Sunday, 5-3, at Fort Myers. The Pirate infield turned in five double plays behind the eight-hit pitching of Ron Kline and Bob Purkey.

Starter Jim Hearn went five innings for the Phils, giving up all five runs and seven hits, although only two of the Pirate runs were earned. Bob Miller, who replaced Hearn, retired nine Pirates in a row.

Each team made three errors in the loosely played game.

Six Contests at MHS Gym Tonight: Semi-Finals Wed.

The sixth annual Monessen Ozark Basketball Tournament will move into the quarter-final round tonight at the MHS gym.

In all, six games will be staged: three in each division.

Here's tonight's attractive junior class lineup:

Brownsville Peppers against Donora Lumber at 6 p. m.: West Virginia Mounties against Monessen Undergrads at 8:50 and Donora Bills against Monessen Tracys at 9:40.

In the senior class, McKeesport will meet the Monessen Ozarks at 6:50; Donora Last Chance will take on the Monessen Cro-Ams at 7:50 and the loser of that game will meet New Brighton at 10:30.

Semi-Finals Wed.

The tourneys émi-finals will be staged on Wednesday and the title games on Friday.

The first upset of the current show occurred Saturday night when the Monesen Ozarks nipped Monessen Big Five, 56 - 50 in senior division play.

The other senior game went according to form. The top-seeded Washington Intervals toyed with New Brighton, 70-54.

In a junior game, the highly-rated Monessen Links assured a semi-final spot by tripping Elizabeth, 43-35.

Four players hit double figures as the Ozarks shocked Big Five to knock the latter team from tourney consideration.

George Lovich led the winners with 16 points. Once again the Big Five star was Charleroi schoolboy Ollie Payne, who connected for 25 points.

Pitt Scorers

Washington, loaded with Pitt's brilliant scoring twins John Riser and Bob Lazor, lived up to expectations by easily crushing New Brighton. Riser had 24 points and Lasor 17. The clever Beanie Gordon chipped in with 16. For the losers, D. Cairns had 15.

The Monessen Links had to battle all the way to win their game from Elizabeth.

Payne led the victors with 11 points. Ron Minnie, former Monessen High star now at Westminster, chipped in with 10.

For Elizabeth, McKeesport star Larry VanEman finished with ten points.

De Fendis Meets Durelle Tonight

NEW YORK (UP) — Light-heavyweight Angelo Defendis of Brooklyn seeks his seventh straight victory tonight in a 10-rounder with Yvon Durelle, champion of Canada, at St. Nicholas Arena.

It will be televised by DuMont at 10:30 p.m. EST.

Defendis, 24, is favored at 13-5 over his more experienced, 27-year-old opponent from Sale Ste. Anne, New Brunswick, because of his punch.

Tar Heels Nip Kansas For Title

By LYLE SCHWILLING

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP) — North Carolina's Tar Heels squeezed through two triple overtime periods to win the NCAA basketball championship and Coach Frank McGuire admitted today "it's uncanny how we could have kept our undefeated season going."

McGuire was preparing to coach the East squad in tonight's East-West Shrine all-star game here and for the hubbub over fights during the national championship game to die down.

"We were lucky, awfully lucky all season long in the close games," he said, "but our boys always kept their poise and came through in the clutch. I guess that's the mark of champions."

Fights Break Out

The Tar Heels had to go through three overtimes to top Michigan State in the semi-finals, 74-70, and through three more to win the national championship from Kansas, 54-53, Saturday night.

But when it was all over, Coach Dick Harp of Kansas and all others agreed that North Carolina truly is the nation's No. 1 team.

The tense, drama packed championship game brought on two scuffles among the players and two more between the coaches.

The first was between Pete Brennan of North Carolina and Wilt Chamberlain of Kansas, and a flagrant foul was called on North Carolina. The second saw Tommy Kearns of North Carolina take a swing at Gene Elstun of Kansas, for another flagrant foul.

In between, McGuire was accused of, but denied, yelling at Harp, "You phoney you, I'll punch you right in the eye."

McGuire did say that a Kansas assistant coach (Jack Eskridge) "rushed up and shoved me."

Juniors Big Factor

North Carolina won the game with juniors, an indication the Tar Heels might shoot for a second straight crown next season to match San Francisco's record.

McGuire had only two seniors on the team that ran up 32 straight wins this season, All-America Lennie Rosenbluth and Bob Young.

Joe Quigg, a 6-9 junior, won the title game for North Carolina with a pair of free throws with six seconds left in the third overtime. He sealed Kansas' fate by batting down a pass to Chamberlain on the post with three seconds left.

San Francisco, champion the past two years, ended up in third place in the NCAA playoffs by downing Michigan State 67-60.

Bradley Wins NIT Cage Title

By JOHN GRIFFIN

NEW YORK (UP) — Bradley's "rich" National Invitation Tournament champions will be even "richer" next season — probably battling NCAA champion North Carolina and Kansas for the No. 1 national basketball ranking.

"We should be a better team next season," Bradley Coach Chuck Osborn proclaimed in the wake of his Braves' 84-83 win over Memphis State in Saturday's NIT final, and the "experts" were quick to agree with him.

"We don't lose anybody at all from this year's team," the rookie coach pointed out. "And in addition, we have stars coming up from a freshman team that had an unbeaten 15-0 record."

Three-Pointer Wins It

Leading the parade of returning stars will be Shellie McMillon, whose three-point play with 29 seconds left clinched the title game, and Barney Cable and Bobby Mason, both named to the All-NIT team They're backed up already by so many strong players that Memphis Coach Bob Vanatta conceded, "They just had too many shooters for us—every one was a scoring threat down to the sixth and seventh men."

The future isn't quite as bright for Memphis State's gallant "Upset Kids" who came heart-breakingly close to grabbing the top prize in their very first NIT appearance. The Tigers lose only two men — but they are "most valuable player" Win Wilfong, and hard-driving little Jack Butcher, also an all-tourney selection.

The only non-finalist to make the all-NIT team was Guy Rodgers of Temple. The Owls won consolation honors by defeating St. Bonaventure, 67-50.

Wilfong Fouled Out

Wilfong's absence on personal fouls hurt the Tigers in the final 29 seconds of play, just after McMillon had slapped in a rebound shot to tie the score for Bradley at 83-83 and then, fouled on the play by Bob Swander, added a free throw that proved the winning point.

Vanatta, who coached Bradley last year, disclosed that Memphis took an "all for broke" gamble at this point.

"We held the ball for one last shot, and that would win the championship or lose it," said Vanatta. "But when (Bob) Swander finally got to take the shot after a scramble, he had only a very tough shot"

Babich Leaves For Buc Camp

PITTSBURGH (UP)— Thirteen young hopefuls from Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia left here Sunday for the Pittsburgh Pirates minor league spring training camp at Jacksonville Beach, Fla.

The group included: outfielder Miller Adams, catcher Ted Bowser, free agent players Richard Muno and Thomas Reardon, pitcher Alex Perinis, all of Pittsburgh; first baseman Richard Babich, Fayette City, Pa.; outfielder Willard Cayavec, Youngstown, Ohio; pitcher Dick Foxx, Greenhills, Ohio; free agent Robert Lambermont, New Kensington, Pa.; pitcher Frank Petron, Vandergrift, Pa.; outfielder John Swogger, Wampum, Pa.; pitcher Donald Wigton, Petrolia, Pa., and Pete Zeck, Fairmont, W. Va.

Trew Loses His Rifle Title To Earl Taylor

FAIRMONT, W. Va. (UP)—Earl Taylor of Waynesburg, Pa., won the National Rifle Association indoor sectional here Sunday, defeating national champion Barry Trew of Bentleyville, Pa.

A total of 53 entries from West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Ohio competed in the two-day meet at the Onized Gun Club.

Taylor and Trew each wound up with an aggregate score of 791 which meant the winner had to be decided by the score in the standing position. In that category, Taylor had 192 and Trew 191.

The No. 3 position went to George McCreight of Burgettstown, Pa., with 790.

National winners are determined after the results of all sectionals are mailed in to the Association.

Frazier Simplex No. 1 of Washington, Pa., registered the unofficial top team score of 1587, beating its own year-old record of 1577.

LONDON (UP)— Water speed champion Donald Campbell of England plans to drive his jet boat Bluebird through the 250-mile per-hour water barrier somewhere in New York state this summer.

May Change Color Of Basketball

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—Television moved into the field of basketball rules today and caused officials to think about what color ball should be used to show up best on the home screens.

The National Basketball Committee of the United States and Canada, which makes the basketball rules, is considering using yellow balls for TV games, the better to please the fans at home.

The committee opened its annual meeting here Sunday and was expected to finish its work on the annual rules revision tonight.

While the committee had perhaps 100 different suggested rule changes, one that seemed certain to pass would modify the one and one foul shot. Coaches last week recommended that the one and one be suspended on the first six fouls by each team each half, along lines of a system used in the Big Ten this season.

Service Teams In AAU Tourney

DENVER (UP)— Two talented service teams — the U.S. Army and the U.S. Air Force — loomed as definite threats to co-favorites Phillips 66 of Bartlesville, Okla., and defending champion Seattle Buchan Bakers in the 50th annual AAU basketball tournament opening today.

Twenty-six teams will see action in the single-game elimination tourney which ends Saturday night with the championship and third-place games.

Yogi Berra on Warpath Again; Paces Easy Win over Brooklyn

By FRED DOWN

Yogi Berra is swinging that big bat again — and its no coincidence that the New York Yankees are looking like world champions again.

Even a pre-game ligament sprain suffered by Mickey Mantle was glossed over as the Yankees pounded out 16 hits for a 14-4 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers Sunday to even the "spring World Series" at one game each. Mantle's injury — he stepped in a gopher hole while running in the outfield — is expected to sideline him for a week but is not considered serious.

With Mantle out of action, it was up to Berra to swing the big stick for the Yankees and he did just that — hammering out a triple, double and two singles in six tries to knock in five runs.

A's In One-Hitter

Art Ditmar and Bobby Shantz, Kansas City's winter gifts to the champions, divided the pitching chores for the Yankees and limited the Dodgers to eight hits.

Tom Morgan and Tom Gorman, both former Yankees, collaborated in a one-hit pitching job that paced the Kansas City Athletics to a 4-0 win over the Washington Senators. Morgan yielded the hit —a single by Eddie Yost in the fifth inning.

Sam Jones, obtained in a winter deal with the Chicago Cubs, hurled seven shutout innings without issuing a walk and struck out six as the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Milwaukee Braves, 1-0.

Vic Wertz's three-run homer and three-hit pitching by Herb Score and Don Mossi enabled the Cleveland Indians to whip the New York Giants, 4-3.

Chisox Slam Redlegs

The Pittsburgh Pirates scored their ninth win in 14 games when they beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-3, behind the eight-hit pitching of Ron Kline and Bob Purkey. The Pirate infield reeled off five double plays to compensate for three errors.

Moe Drabowsky and Tom Poholsky tossed a seven-hitter as the Chicago Cubs downed the Baltimore Orioles, 8-2.

Dave Philley's three-run first-inning homer sparked the Chicago White Sox to an 8-1 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs that ended a four-game Chisox losing skein.

Ray Boone, Harvey Kuenn, Frank Bolling and Reno Bertoia homered as the Detroit Tigers walloped the Toronto Maple Leafs, 15-3, and Heywood Sullivan's two-run, 10th-inning homer gave the Boston Red Sox a 5-4 decision over the San Francisco Seals in other games.

O'Brien Twins Are Split Up

FORT MYERS, Fla. (UP)—The O'Brien twins have gone their separate ways at last.

The Pittsburgh Pirates split up the twins Sunday for the first time since the brothers were signed in 1953. They assigned Eddie to Hollywood on a 24-hour option.

Johnny O'Brien remains with the Pirates and is very much in the fight for a regular infield post.

Eddie has been used as an infielder and outfielder.

Three other Pirates left camp Sunday. Shortstop Dick Barone was optioned to Columbus, outfielder Al Griggs was sent to Jacksonville, Fla. for reassignment and pitcher Don Schultz was returned to Hollywood.

Name Golf Pro At Pittsburgh Club

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Art Doering was named golf professional at the Pittsburgh Field Club today to succeed Pete Snead.

As an amateur, Doering, a native of Chicago, won the 1945 All-American tourney and turned pro the following season. He won the Greensboro Open in 1951 and the Metropolitan Open in 1955.

Italy Defeats U. S. Soccer Team

WIESBADEN, Germany (UP)— Italy defeated a United States soccer team, 4-1, Sunday, in an international military match before a crowd of 2,500 rain-drenched spectators.

Boston Gains Title Berth

By UNITED PRESS

The Boston Celtics were safely berthed today in the championship round of the National Basketball Association playoffs, and the St. Louis Hawks will try to join them by beating Minneapolis a third straight time tonight.

The Celtics completed a 3-0 sweep of the Eastern Division playoffs Sunday afternoon in Boston with an 83-80 victory over the Syracuse Nationals as Bill Sharman led the way with 23 points.

At St. Louis, Cliff Hagan and Bob Pettit led the Hawks to a 106-104 win over the Minneapolis Lakers with Pettit's three-point play the key to the triumph. Tonight, the scene shifts to Minneapolis for the third game in the best-of-five series.

Sportsmen Show In Harrisburg

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Pennsylvania Recreation and Sportsmen's Show opened here today for a week-long stand expected to be attended by a quarter of a million visitors.

John W. Altland, managing director, said the show has exhibits worth $1,000,000, including the largest exhibition of guns, sporting arms and ammunition and fishing equipment to be shown in the east this year.

Highlights of the show will be competition between 90 junior rifle clubs, field trial demonstrations, the eastern indoor archery championships and the selection of "Outdoor Girl of America." The eight Pennsylvania finalists are Mrs. Arlene C. Rhine, Dauphin County; Mrs. Anne Antolosky, Windber; Donna L. Good, Renovo; Diana M. Hooper, Harlansburg; Phyllis Penrod, Windber; Gail Schaub, Pittsburgh; Sandra Spence, Mt. Pleasant, and Joanne M. Sterner, Hanover.

Hundley on Pitt All-Opponent

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The University of Pittsburgh basketball squad today elected West Virginia's Hot Rod Hundley its first choice for the Panthers' all-opponent team of the past season.

Frank Howard of Ohio State, John Smyth of Notre Dame, Dave Ricketts of Duquesne and Gerry Calvert of Kentucky completed Pitt's first string all-opponent roster.

Cubs Hope Only to Progress a Little

By BILL MCFARLAND

MESA, Ariz. (UP)—Renovated from top to bottom, the Chicago Cubs set out this season on a long-range project to climb from the bottom to the top of the National League.

Bob Scheffing, new manager of the club, says: "We have set our sights on progress, not miracles, this year. . .The main thing being to get out of eighth place."

"We fixed two very weak spots when we acquired two capable catchers and a hard-hitting third baseman," said Scheffing, pointing to Charlie Silvera and Ray Katt, behind the plate, and Ray Jablonski, at third.

Hurler Prospects Good

"Our pitching should be pretty good," Scheffing said, and listed veteran Bob Rush, the six - foot, five-inch right - hander, and bonus baby Myron (Moe) Drabowsky as two potential "big winners."

In addition, the staff includes Jim Bronsan, 5-9; Don Kaiser, 4-9; Turk Lown, 9-8 and Vito Valentinetti, 6-4, all with the Cubs last year, along with Jack Collum and Tom Poholsky, acquired in a deal with St. Louis.

Scheffing believes he has the best keystone combination in the business in home-run hitting Ernie Banks at shortstop, and Gene Baker, who also can hit the long ball, at second base. The only problem is that Banks has a chronic sore arm and may be switched to first base. First-sacker Dee Fondy hit .300 and .309 in 1952 and 1953, but hasn't been close to that figure since.

Jablonski, because of his runs-batted-in record, probably will get the call at third base, although George Freese, up from Los Angeles, is given a good chance to stick with the club.

The outfield appears to offer Scheffing the most trouble. He needs heavy hitting at those positions, and the record shows he may not have it.

Walt Moryn, the 223-pound ex-Dodger, appears to be the only "cinch" in the outfield. The big right fielder hit .285, blasted 23 home runs and drove in 67 runs for the Cubs last year.

Columnist Blasts Press 'Pampering' Of Eisenhower

CHAPEL, HILL, N.C. (UP)—A Washington columnist has criticized the press for "pampering" President Eisenhower and for a "tendency" to "look through Eisenhower's rose-colored glasses."

Doris Fleeson, Washington columnist for United Features Syndicate, told the North Carolina Press Women Saturday that "the press was often unfair to Presidents Truman and Roosevelt" but that "it is better to be unfair to a president than to pamper him as they have done Eisenhower."

"The tendency of the press to look through Eisenhower's rose-colored glasses and to overlook the failure to give creative leadership," she said, "has given people a totally wrong idea of the situation."

Rostraver Latin Club Banquet In Charleroi

Over 100 persons attended the recent Rostraver High School Latin Club banquet in Charleroi.

The invocation was given by Anthony Ortolona and entertainment was provided by Joann Durka, Frances Guzzie, Joyce Lubrani and Carole Victoria.

Recognition was given to those pupils who were high sellers of Christmas candy. They were: Martha Krajnik, David Burkes, Joann Nelson, Dolores Martinez, Larry Lynn, Monte Foor, Joanne Sivie, Judy Martak, Pat Smith, Rose Stewart, Priscilla Revak, Dennis Leeper, Janet Waddell, Shirley Gallo, Joel Mochnally and Don Fustich. Each senior member of the Latin Club was then given a silver dollar. On behalf of the club, Don Kula presented a gift to Miss Gess, club advisor.

Guests present included Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fleming, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Herman, Flora Spiegel, Mrs. E. F. Carter, and Mrs. Vencen Jones.

The dinner arrangements were made by Eugene Grilli, Lonnie Koontz and Diane Badock, with the club officers, Don Dula, Anthony Ortolona, Joyce Safier and Rose Stewart assisting.

Mary Carnes in Charge of Ladies Bible Meeting

The Ladies Adult Bible Class of Pricedale Sunday School met Thursday at the recreation hall with Mary Carnes, president, in charge. The group singing was accompanied by Eva Williamson and prayers were offered by Mrs. White, Mrs. Carnes, Mrs. Huscroft, Mrs. Williamson and Mrs. Echart.

Following "The Lord's Prayer" and the singing of "When the Roll is Called", the following lessons were read: "The Mock Funeral" by Mrs. White; "Trusting Jesus", Mrs. Bridge; "Trees Clap Hands", Mrs. Williamson, "Life", and Mrs. Echart, "I Am With You All the Days".

The business was in charge of Mrs. Carnes with reports given by the secretary and treasurer. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Louis Bridge, of Park Manor, with Eva Williamson in charge. Following games, led by Elizabeth White, lunch was served by Barbara Huscroft and Mary Jane Harrison.

Others present included Annie Bush, Margaret Smith, Kathryn Burkett, Mary Horne, Irene Husher, Janet Rodebaugh, Lydia Popp and Flora Beaumont, a guest.

Missionary Society Conducts Session

The Missionary Society of Webster Presbyterian Church met Wednesday with Lois Thompson in charge. Elmer Gillingham conducted the Bible study on "Peace and War" and June Cupples was topic leader.

Rosina Gillingham offered prayers for the missions. Hostesses were Mary Bentley, Mary Curran and Lyda Stevenson.

Others present were Margaret Riedel, Kathryn Wilson, Dora Richey and Anna Hilerbrand, and Bill Maurer.

Mrs. Jack Echart and son, Charles, were in Uniontown Friday visiting with Mrs. Echart's sister, a patient in Uniontown Hospital.

Mrs. Betty Scotch, of Broad avenue, extension, who had been a patient in Charleroi-Monessen Hospital, has returned home.

The Rev. Louis Smith, of R. D. 3, Belle Vernon, was guest speaker at the Congregational Church in Charleroi yesterday.

Mrs. Josephine Pastore, Gloria Tader, of Clairton, and Mrs. John Schiffone, of Canonsburg, were recent dinner guests at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Louis Smith.

The band parents will meet tonight at 7:30 in the music room of the new Junior High School. The executive board will meet at 7.

Mrs. Josephine Pastore, Gloria Tader, both of Clairton, and Mrs. John Schiffonne, of Canonsburg, were dinner guests of the Rev. and Mrs. Louis Smith, of R. D. 3, Belle Vernon, Sunday.

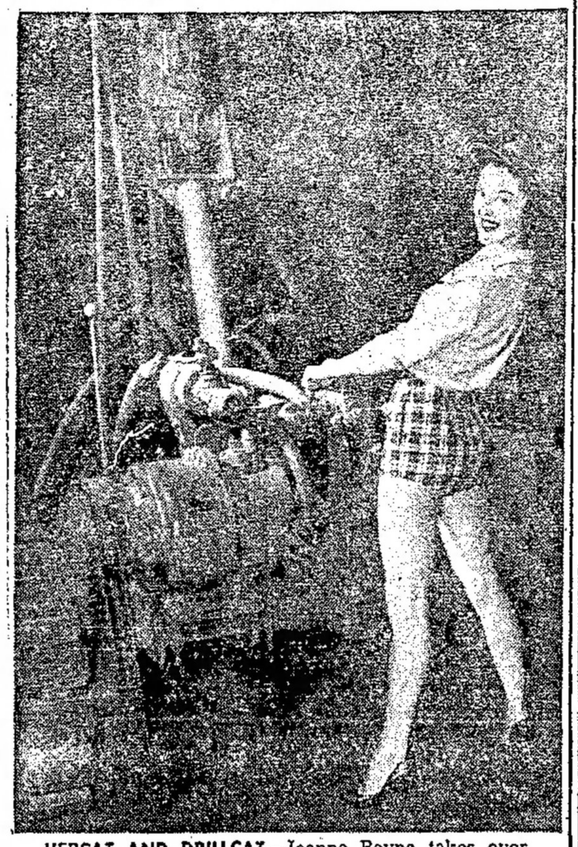
KNOCKING on the DOOR

Outside Constitution hall, in Fairbanks, "congressmen" exhibit the proposed flag.

KEY that unlocks the door to statehood for Alaska may be the same one used first by Tennessee—put Congress on the spot by acting as if statehood were already a fact and not just a hope. To do this, Alaska has elected "congressmen" and drafted a constitution. In her most determined bid for the prize of statehood, Alaska picked William Egan and Ernest Gruening (her former governor) as "senators" and Ralph Rivers and E. L. Bartlett as "representatives." Alaska has even designed a new 49-star flag, one with seven rows of seven stars each, to show how her admission would change the Stars and Stripes. Meanwhile, out in the wide Pacific, another applicant for membership — Hawaii — is hoping to beat Alaska into the Congress of the U. S. Both promise new glory for "Old Glory."

"Senator" Gruening holds up typical giant king crab.



HEPCAT AND DRILLCAT—Joanne Boyne takes over one-man controls of a Drillcat at a road-builders' show in Chicago. It's used to drill holes for blasting.
